

What Feedback Do You Have for Me?

Identify one behaviour that I should stop, one I should start and one I should continue, and tell me how that would be helpful to you.

	What should I stop, that hinders your performance?	What can I start?	What should I continue?
Behaviour*:
Because...

*Examples of behaviours expected of a manager (though this is not an exhaustive list and you can write anything that is relevant to you):

- Clearly defining the roles and responsibilities for the people I supervise.
- Providing valuable feedback and coaching that helps the people I supervise improve their performance.
- Providing useful guidance on the training and development to the people I supervise.
- Providing opportunities to the people I supervise to build their skills for their long-term success.
- Balancing the workload to allow people time to produce quality work.
- Recognising the people I supervise for their people developer activities.
- Providing access to the information needed for people to complete their jobs effectively.
